

STATEMENT OF DEMONSTRATED OUTCOMES

Stephen Johansson is an experienced and innovative sport and recreation architect.

Mr. Johansson's practice has assisted a wide range of sporting and community groups to achieve cost effective solutions to their building and facility needs.

The building systems employed by the Mr. Johansson's Facility Design Group have seen many organisations develop facilities which did not seem possible just a few years ago.

Often the word design is seen as appearance rather than function. Stephen approaches design as a problem solving process resulting in an environmentally functional facility with architectural integrity.

Community sport requires a "cost managed design system" which is able to achieve cost control from the concept stage to construction delivery. The cost implication of each element of the facility is critical to community sport's ability to control and manage the budget available for the project. Stephen Johansson has demonstrated his ability to provide such an opportunity for sporting and community groups.
